

SAF & CFSC Workshop

Southern California Oak Woodlands:

Fire, Change, and Collaborative Stewardship

QUAIL HILL COMMUNITY CENTER
IRVINE, CALIFORNIA

May 13th, 9am to 3pm

Join land managers, researchers, Tribal members, policymakers, and community members for an engaging workshop exploring how fire shapes oak ecosystems and how collaboration can support resilient landscapes.

What to Expect:

- Learn about the latest science on fire behavior and oak ecology
- Hear on-the-ground management experiences from practitioners
- Explore strategies for collaboration across sectors and communities
- Engage with presentations, case studies, and facilitated dialogue
- Discover practical tools and partnerships that support healthy, fire-adapted oak woodlands in Southern California

Visit: cafirescience.org

